A real-time financial solution

A real-time, multi-currency banking system

Clareti Banking is a real-time integrated, multi-currency system designed to support the activities of lending and deposit-taking institutions. In addition to customer-related activities, it supports the internal processes required to manage a financial institution day to day.

The system is modular, and it supports deposit management, lending and the many other activities required in daily operations. Its functionalities can be implemented in ways that fully support bank processes and strategies.

Clareti Banking has been designed to operate in both domestic and international markets. Its real-time, multi-currency architecture makes it a natural choice for any organisation needing banking functionality, both domestically and offshore.

Clareti Banking's architecture allows you to implement it in a variety of ways that best meet your needs. It can be installed in your back offices, implemented in remote offices or it can be operated on a fully hosted basis. The choice is yours.

Clareti Banking supports all the customer channels needed to ensure a competitive and cost-effective implementation. ATM/POS is supported and Internet Banking and Telephone Banking may be configured to meet corporate standards including webpage presentation, local terminology and accents.

The integrated reporting supports your internal audit processes and as needed, regulatory reporting can be implemented for each jurisdiction in which it operates.
